NEWS & UPCOMING EVENTS!

THANKSGIVING DEFINED: GIVING THANKS

On Thanksgivings past, I've been thankful for all God has provided: my family, my friends, and my church family. I've voiced that by reading scriptures, leading you in prayers, preaching sermons, and blessing the turkey-food.

This year I will be celebrating Thanksgiving from a totally different perspective. It will be very personal. It will be about how you have supported me during my illness, about the deacons, about the preachers, about the cards and calls, about the prayers, about my family and especially about June. Thank you and thank God for you.

But it will also be about the many years of good health.

Sometimes I/we lose the connection between our good fortune and the blessing of God and are tempted to give thanks like the farmer who prayed: "Lord, we cleared this land, we plowed it, sowed it and harvested it. We cooked the harvest. It wouldn't be here, and we wouldn't be eating if we hadn't done it all ourselves. We worked dog-bone hard for every crumb and morsel, but we thank you just the same, Lord, for this food we're about to eat. Amen."

Harvest is not just about how many vitamins I've taken, about how vegetarian I've been, about how I haven't been a smoker or drunkard. It's about getting the great BIG PICTURE. The God's eye view.

Real thanksgiving isn't based on the fact that someone else got a smaller piece of pie than I did, or more time on planet earth, or more or less of health, happiness, or hurts.

Real Thanksgiving is based on an awareness that we are not alone in our everyday world. We give thanks not because we have more or are healthier than others or our home are less damaged by floods, wars, or terrorists.

NO! The real base reason for our thanksgiving is "God's indescribable gift to us." (2 Corinthians 9:15)

Whatever this year's harvest, join me in giving thanks for our Lord Jesus Christ and each other.

Dr. James Austin

INSIDE STORY HEADLINE

This story can fit 150-200 words.

One benefit of using your newsletter as a promotional tool is that you can reuse content from other marketing materials, such as press releases, market studies, and reports.

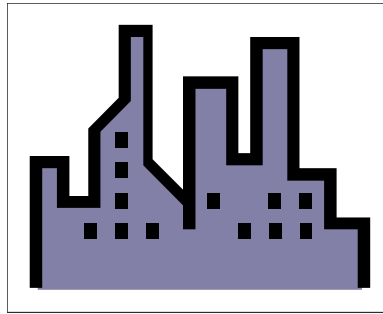

While your main goal of distributing a newsletter might be to sell your product or service, the key to a successful newsletter is making it useful to your readers.

A great way to add useful content to your newsletter is to develop and write your own articles, or include a calendar of upcoming events or a special offer that promotes a new product.

You can also research articles or find "filler" articles by accessing the World Wide Web. You can write about a variety of topics but try to keep your articles short.

Much of the content you put in your newsletter can also be used for your Web site. Microsoft Publisher offers a simple way to convert your newsletter to a Web publication. So, when you're finished writing your newsletter, convert it to a Web site and post it.

INSIDE STORY HEADLINE

This story can fit 100-150 words.

The subject matter that appears in newsletters is virtually endless. You can include stories that focus on current technologies or innovations in your field.

You may also want to note business or economic trends, or make predictions for your customers or clients.

If the newsletter is distributed internally, you might comment upon new procedures or improvements to the business. Sales figures or earnings will show how your business is growing.

Some newsletters include a column that is updated every issue, for instance, an advice column, a book review, a letter from the president, or an editorial. You can also profile new employees or top customers or vendors.

"To catch the reader's attention, place an interesting sentence or quote from the story here."

INSIDE STORY HEADLINE

This story can fit 75-125 words.

Selecting pictures or graphics is an important part of adding content to your newsletter.

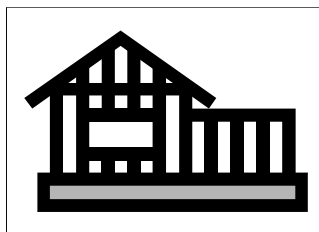

Think about your article and ask yourself if the picture supports or enhances the message you're trying to convey. Avoid selecting images that appear to be out of context.

Microsoft Publisher includes thousands of clip art images from which you can choose and import into your newsletter.

There are also several tools you can use to draw shapes and symbols.

Once you have chosen an image, place it close to the article. Be sure to place the
